

FOSTER WHEELER CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

Introduction

Purpose

This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (“Code”) contains general guidelines for conducting the business of Foster Wheeler AG (the “Company”) and all of its direct and indirect subsidiaries (collectively, “Foster Wheeler”) consistent with the highest standards of business ethics. To the extent this Code requires a higher standard than required by commercial practice or applicable laws, rules or regulations, we adhere to these higher standards.

This Code applies to all directors, officers and employees of, and other persons acting in similar capacities for, Foster Wheeler. We refer to all persons covered by this Code as “Foster Wheeler employees” or simply “employees.” We also refer to the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer, Chief Accounting Officer and Controller of the Company as our “Principal Financial Officers.”

References in the Company’s Corporate Policies to the Company’s ‘Code of Conduct’, ‘Code of Ethics’, ‘Code of Business Conduct and Ethics’, or similar phrases in meaning and intent shall be deemed references to this Code.

Seeking Help and Information

This Code is not intended to be a comprehensive rulebook and cannot address every situation that you may face. If you feel uncomfortable about a situation, need advice before making decisions that appear to have significant legal or ethical implications, or have any doubts about whether it is consistent with Foster Wheeler’s ethical standards, please seek assistance. We encourage you to contact your supervisor for help first. If your supervisor cannot answer your question or if you do not feel comfortable contacting your supervisor, you may contact the Corporate Counsel or the Corporate Compliance Officer for your Operating Unit, or, in the case of an issue involving your employment, the Human Resources Department for your Operating Unit. General questions concerning the requirements of this Code or the procedures to be followed may also be discussed in confidence with the General Counsel of your Operating Unit or the General Counsel of the Company.

Reporting Violations

All employees have a duty to report in good faith any known or suspected violation of this Code, including any violation of the laws, rules, regulations or corporate or other policies that apply to you, your Business Group and/or Operating Unit or Foster Wheeler or any observed instances of misconduct or pressure to compromise the Company’s ethics standards (all such violations or actions as used herein collectively “this Code” or “Code”)

If you know of or have reason to believe a violation of this Code has occurred or may occur, you should immediately report such violation by contacting the Foster Wheeler Compliance ReportLine (see below) or you may report the matter to your supervisor or your Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer. If you do not feel comfortable reporting the suspected violation to your supervisor or your Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer or you do not get a satisfactory response, or you continue to reasonably believe a violation of the Code has or may occur, you should contact directly the Chief Corporate Compliance Officer of the Company at 908-713-2379 or the General Counsel of the Company at 908-730-4020.

The Company will promptly investigate your report to resolve the matter. You are protected by law, and no adverse action of any kind will be taken against you for reporting in good faith what you believe to be a violation of this Code.

Any reprisal or retaliation by a Foster Wheeler employee against another employee because such other employee, in good faith, sought help or filed a report with respect to a known or suspected violation of this Code will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment of the offending employee.

Waivers of the Code

Waivers of this Code will be granted only in extraordinary circumstances. Waivers of this Code for employees may be made only by the Chief Executive Officer of the Company. Any waiver of this Code for Foster Wheeler directors or executive officers or the Principal Financial Officers may be made only by the Board of Directors of the Company and will be disclosed to the public as required by law or the rules of any exchange on which Foster Wheeler's securities are publicly traded.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Identifying Potential Conflicts of Interest

An actual or apparent conflict of interest can occur when an employee's private interest interferes, or appears to interfere, with the interests of Foster Wheeler. You should avoid any private interest that influences your ability to act in the interests of Foster Wheeler or that makes it difficult to perform your work objectively and effectively.

Identifying potential conflicts of interest may not always be clear-cut. The following situations are examples of conflicts of interest:

- Outside Employment. No employee should be employed by, serve as a director of, or provide any services to a company that is a customer, supplier or competitor of Foster Wheeler.
- Improper Personal Benefits. No employee should obtain any material (as to him or her) personal benefits or favors because of his or her position with Foster Wheeler. Please see "Gifts and Entertainment" below for additional guidelines in this area.
- Financial Interests. No employee should knowingly have a significant financial interest (ownership or otherwise) in any company that is a customer, supplier or competitor of Foster Wheeler. A "significant financial interest" means (i) ownership of greater than 1% of the equity of a customer, supplier or competitor or (ii) an investment in a customer, supplier or competitor that represents more than 5% of the total assets of the employee.
- Loans or Other Financial Transactions. No employee should obtain loans or guarantees of personal obligations from, or enter into any other personal financial transaction with, any company that is a customer, supplier or competitor of Foster Wheeler. This guideline does not prohibit arms-length transactions with banks, brokerage firms or other financial institutions.
- Service on Boards and Committees. No employee should serve on a board of directors or trustees or on a committee of any entity (whether profit or not-for-profit) whose interests reasonably would be expected to conflict with those of Foster Wheeler.

Disclosure of Conflicts of Interest

Foster Wheeler requires that employees disclose any situations that reasonably would be expected to give rise to a conflict of interest. If you suspect that you have a conflict of interest, or something that others could reasonably perceive as a conflict of interest, you must report it to your supervisor or your Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer. They will work with you to determine whether you have a conflict of interest and, if so, how best to address it. Although conflicts of interest are not automatically prohibited, they are not desirable and may only be waived as described in "Waivers of the Code" above.

Corporate Opportunities

All employees of Foster Wheeler have an obligation to advance Foster Wheeler's interests when the opportunity to do so arises. If you discover or are presented with a business opportunity through the use of corporate property or information or because of your position with Foster Wheeler that is in Foster Wheeler's line of business, you should first present the business opportunity to Foster Wheeler before pursuing the opportunity in your individual capacity. No employee may use corporate property, information or his or her position with Foster Wheeler for personal gain or should compete with the Company.

You should disclose to your supervisor or your Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer the terms and conditions of any business opportunity covered by this Code that you wish to pursue, and they will contact the appropriate management personnel to determine whether Foster Wheeler wishes to pursue the business opportunity. If Foster Wheeler waives its right to pursue the business opportunity, you may pursue the business opportunity on the same terms and conditions as originally proposed and consistent with the other ethical guidelines set forth in this Code.

Fraudulent Behavior

Fraudulent behavior is a broad concept that refers generally to any intentional act committed to secure an unfair or unlawful gain. Black's Law Dictionary defines fraud as, "An intentional perversion of truth for the purpose of inducing another in reliance upon it to part with some valuable thing belonging to him or to surrender a legal right; a false representation of a matter of fact, whether by words or by conduct, by false or misleading allegations, or by concealment of that which should have been disclosed, which deceives and is intended to deceive another so that he shall act upon it to his legal injury."

Financial fraud typically falls into four broad categories:

- Fraudulent financial reporting — Most fraudulent financial reporting schemes involve earnings management, arising from improper revenue recognition, and overstatement of assets or understatement of liabilities.
- Misappropriation of assets — This category involves external and internal schemes, such as embezzlement, payroll fraud and theft.
- Expenditures and liabilities for improper purposes — This category refers to commercial and public bribery, as well as other improper payment schemes.
- Fraudulently obtained revenue and assets, and costs and expenses avoided — This category refers to schemes where an entity commits a fraud against its employees or third parties, or when an entity improperly avoids an expense, such as tax fraud.

Foster Wheeler does not condone and will not tolerate fraudulent behavior or activity of any type, regardless of the nature or materiality thereof or whether constituting financial fraud or any other fraudulent business activity or behavior. If you in good faith suspect fraudulent activity of any kind has been or is being conducted with respect to any Foster Wheeler Operating Unit, employee or subsidiary, you should report such suspicions immediately through the Foster Wheeler Compliance ReportLine. You may remain anonymous and you are protected by law from retaliation of any type for making such a report.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Employees have access to a variety of confidential information, which includes all non-public information, while employed at Foster Wheeler. Confidential information includes all non-public information that might be of use to competitors, or, if disclosed, harmful to Foster Wheeler or its customers. Employees have a duty to safeguard all confidential information of Foster Wheeler or third parties with which Foster Wheeler conducts business, except when disclosure is authorized or legally mandated. An employee's obligation to protect confidential information continues after he or she leaves Foster Wheeler. Unauthorized disclosure of confidential information could cause competitive harm to Foster Wheeler or its customers and could result in legal liability to you and Foster Wheeler.

Any questions or concerns regarding whether disclosure of Foster Wheeler information is legally mandated should be promptly referred to the General Counsel of the Company.

COMPETITION AND FAIR DEALING

All employees are obligated to deal fairly with fellow employees and with Foster Wheeler's customers, suppliers, competitors and other third parties.

Relationships with Customers

Our business success depends upon our ability to foster lasting customer relationships. Foster Wheeler is committed to dealing with customers fairly, honestly and with integrity. Specifically, you should keep the following guidelines in mind when dealing with customers:

- information we supply to customers should be accurate and complete to the best of our knowledge;
- employees should not deliberately misrepresent information to customers;
- customer entertainment should not exceed reasonable and customary business practice; and,
- employees should not provide entertainment or other benefits that could be viewed as an inducement to or a reward for, customer purchase decisions.

Please see "Gifts and Entertainment" below for additional guidelines in this area.

Relationships with Suppliers

Foster Wheeler deals fairly and honestly with its suppliers. This means that our relationships with suppliers are based on price, quality, service and reputation, among other factors. Employees dealing with suppliers should carefully observe objectivity. Specifically, no employee should accept or solicit any personal benefit from a supplier or potential supplier that might compromise, or appear to compromise, their objective assessment of the supplier's products and prices. Employees can give or accept promotional items of nominal value or moderately scaled entertainment within the limits of responsible and customary business practice. Please see "Gifts and Entertainment" below for additional guidelines in this area.

Relationships with Competitors

Foster Wheeler is committed to free and open competition in the marketplace. Employees should avoid actions that reasonably could be construed as being anti-competitive, monopolistic or otherwise contrary to laws governing competitive practices in the marketplace, including applicable antitrust, monopoly, competition or cartel laws in all countries, states or localities in which Foster Wheeler conducts business. Such actions include misappropriation and/or misuse of a competitor's confidential information or making false statements about a competitor's business and business practices. For a further discussion of appropriate and inappropriate business conduct with competitors, see "Compliance with Antitrust Laws" below.

PROTECTION AND USE OF FOSTER WHEELER ASSETS

Employees should protect Foster Wheeler's assets and ensure their efficient use for legitimate business purposes only. Theft, carelessness and waste have a direct impact on Foster Wheeler's profitability. The use of Foster Wheeler's assets for any unlawful or improper purpose is prohibited. Employees shall use Foster Wheeler property only for legitimate business purposes, as authorized in connection with their job responsibilities.

To ensure the protection and proper use of Foster Wheeler's assets, each employee should:

- exercise reasonable care to prevent theft, damage or misuse of Foster Wheeler property;
- report the actual or suspected theft, damage or misuse of Foster Wheeler property to a supervisor;
- use Foster Wheeler's telephone system, other electronic communication services and written materials for business-related purposes, and as otherwise expressly permitted by local policies established by such employee's Business Group or Operating Unit ("Local Policy"); occasional and limited personal use of e-mail, telephones and other communication devices is allowed, but abuse or misuse is inappropriate and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal; and,

- safeguard all electronic programs, data, communications, and written materials from inadvertent access by others.

Employees should be aware that Foster Wheeler property includes all data and communications transmitted or received to or by, or contained in, Foster Wheeler's electronic or telephonic systems. Foster Wheeler property also includes all written communications. Employees and other users of this property should have no expectation of privacy with respect to these communications and data. To the extent permitted by law, Foster Wheeler has the ability, and reserves the right, to monitor all electronic and telephonic communication. These communications may also be subject to disclosure to law enforcement or government officials.

GIFTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

The giving and receiving of gifts is a common business practice. Appropriate business gifts and entertainment are courtesies designed to build relationships and understanding among business partners. However, gifts and entertainment should not compromise, or appear to compromise, your ability to make objective and fair business decisions. Employees are expected to observe Local Policy with respect to gifts and entertainment expenses.

It is your responsibility to use good judgment in this area. As a general rule, you may give or receive gifts or entertainment to or from customers or suppliers only if the gift or entertainment would not be viewed as an inducement to or reward for any particular business decision. All gifts and entertainment expenses incurred by an employee should be properly accounted for on expense reports. The following specific examples may be helpful:

- Meals and Entertainment. It is generally appropriate for you to accept or give meals, refreshments or other entertainment if:
 - the items are of reasonable value;
 - the purpose of the meeting or attendance at the event is business related; and
 - the expenses would be paid by Foster Wheeler as a reasonable business expense if not paid for by another party.
- Advertising and Promotional Materials. You may occasionally accept or give advertising or promotional materials of nominal value.
- Gifts Rewarding Service or Accomplishment. You may accept a gift from a civic, charitable or religious organization specifically related to your service or accomplishment.

You must be particularly careful that gifts and entertainment are not construed as bribes, kickbacks or other improper payments. See "The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and Other Laws Governing Our Business Internationally" section in this Code for a more detailed discussion of our policies regarding giving or receiving gifts related to business transactions in countries other than the United States.

You should make every effort to refuse or return a gift that is beyond these permissible guidelines. If it would be inappropriate to refuse a gift or you are unable to return a gift, you should promptly report the gift to your supervisor. Your supervisor will bring the gift to the attention of your Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer, who may require you to donate the gift to an appropriate community organization. If you have any questions about whether it is permissible to accept a gift or something else of value, contact your supervisor or Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer for additional guidance.

Gifts and entertainment may not be offered or exchanged under any circumstances to or with any employees of the United States, or of any of state or local governments. If you have any questions about this policy, contact your supervisor or Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer for additional guidance. For a more detailed discussion of special considerations applicable to dealing with the United States, or any state or local governments, see the "Interactions with the Government" section in this Code.

You are expected to understand and comply with all laws, rules and regulations that apply to your job position. If any doubt exists about whether a course of action is lawful, you should seek advice from your supervisor, Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer or your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel.

applicable laws and regulations, including the special requirements that apply to contracts and transactions with governments and governmental entities. In your interactions with governments or governmental entities you should:

- be forthright and candid at all times; no employee should misstate or omit any material information from any written or oral communication;
- exercise extreme care in maintaining records for and allocating costs; and,
- you should not offer or exchange any gifts, gratuities or favors with, or pay for meals, entertainment, travel or other similar expenses for, employees of governments or governmental entities.

If your job responsibilities include interacting with a government or governmental entity, you are expected to understand and comply with the special laws, rules, and regulations that apply to your job position. If any doubt exists about whether a course of action is lawful, you should seek advice immediately from your supervisor, Operating Unit Corporate Compliance Officer or your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel.

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS AND ACTIVITIES

Foster Wheeler encourages its employees to participate in the political process as individuals and on their own time in the jurisdictions where they reside. It is Foster Wheeler's policy that Foster Wheeler's funds or assets not be used to make a political contribution to any political party or candidate unless prior approval has been given by your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel.

The following guidelines are intended to ensure that any political activity you pursue complies with this policy:

- Contribution of Funds. You may contribute your personal funds to political parties or candidates if it is lawful to do so in the jurisdiction in which you reside. Foster Wheeler will not reimburse you for personal political contributions.
- Volunteer Activities. You may participate in volunteer political activities during non-work time. You may not participate in political activities during working hours.
- Use of Foster Wheeler Facilities. Foster Wheeler's facilities may not be used for political activities (including fundraisers or other activities related to running for office). Foster Wheeler may make its facilities available for limited political functions, including speeches by government officials and political candidates, with the approval of the General Counsel of the Company.
- Use of Foster Wheeler Name. When you participate in political affairs, you should be careful to make it clear that your views and actions are your own, and not made on behalf of Foster Wheeler. For instance, Foster Wheeler letterhead should not be used to send out personal letters in connection with political activities.

These guidelines are intended to ensure that any political activity you pursue is done voluntarily and on your own resources and time. Please contact your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel if you have any questions about this section.

COMPLIANCE WITH ANTITRUST LAWS

Antitrust laws are designed to protect consumers and/or competitors against unfair business practices and to promote and preserve competition. Our policy is to compete vigorously and ethically while complying with all antitrust, monopoly, competition and cartel laws in all countries, states or localities in which Foster Wheeler conducts business.

Actions That Violate Antitrust Laws

All employees should be familiar with the general principles of the antitrust laws of the countries in which they reside or do business. The following is a summary of actions that are not permitted as they do or may violate antitrust laws:

- Price Fixing. Foster Wheeler may not agree with its competitors to raise, lower or stabilize prices or any element of price, including discounts and credit terms.

- Tying. Foster Wheeler may not require a customer to purchase a product that it does not want as a condition to the sale of a different product that the customer does wish to purchase.

Professional Organizations And Trade Associations

Employees should be cautious when attending meetings of professional organizations and trade associations at which competitors are present. Attending meetings of professional organizations and trade associations is both legal and proper, if such meetings have a legitimate business purpose. At such meetings, you should not discuss pricing policy or other competitive terms, or any other proprietary, competitively sensitive information.

Seeking Help

Violations of antitrust laws carry severe consequences and may expose Foster Wheeler and its employees to substantial civil damages, criminal fines, and, in the case of individuals, prison terms. Whenever any doubt exists as to the legality of a particular action or arrangement, it is your responsibility to contact your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel promptly for assistance, approval and review.

Foster Wheeler's employees are prohibited from trading in the stock or other securities of the Company while in possession of material, nonpublic information about Foster Wheeler. In addition, Foster Wheeler's employees are prohibited from recommending, "tipping," or suggesting that anyone else buy or sell stock or other securities of Foster Wheeler on the basis of material, nonpublic information. Foster Wheeler's employees who obtain material nonpublic information about another company in the course of their employment are prohibited from trading in the stock or securities of the other company while in possession of such information or "tipping" others to trade on the basis of such information. Violation of insider trading laws can result in severe fines and criminal penalties, as well as disciplinary action by Foster Wheeler, up to and including termination of employment.

Information is "non-public" if it has not been made generally available to the public by means of a press release or other means of widespread distribution. Information is "material" if a reasonable investor would consider it important in a decision to buy, hold or sell stock or other securities. As a rule of thumb, any information that would affect the value of stock or other securities should be considered material. Examples of information that is generally considered "material" include:

- initiation or settlement of significant litigation; and
- changes in the Company's auditors or a notification from its auditors that the Company may no longer rely on the auditor's report.

Any questions about information you may possess or about any dealings you propose to have or have had in the Company's securities should be promptly brought to the attention of your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel.

THE FOREIGN CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT AND OTHER LAWS GOVERNING OUR BUSINESS INTERNATIONALLY

Stated more concisely, the FCPA prohibits the payment of bribes, kickbacks or other inducements to foreign officials. This prohibition also extends to payments to a sales representative or agent if there is reason to believe that the payment will be used indirectly for a prohibited payment to foreign officials. Violation of the FCPA is a crime that can result in severe fines and criminal penalties, as well as disciplinary action by Foster Wheeler, up to and including termination of employment.

All agreements with sales representatives, agents and others acting in a similar capacity must be in writing, signed and filed in accordance with the procedures of the Business Group or Operating Unit entering into the engagement. Such agreements must contain the following clause:

All payments of any nature must be properly identified and recorded, and be made only in accord with the provisions of valid purchase orders, subcontracts, blanket orders and written sales, agency or consulting agreements.

Other Laws Governing our Business

Employees with significant responsibilities in our international Operating Units have an additional responsibility to understand and comply with the laws and regulations applicable to their job positions. Questions and requests for assistance should be directed to the Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel or the General Counsel of the Company.

Foster Wheeler is also subject to United States anti-boycott laws and regulations, which prevent U.S. companies and certain of their subsidiaries from taking action in support of a boycott imposed by a foreign country upon a nation that is friendly with the United States. Boycott laws often change and must be closely monitored. Any boycott issue must be referred to the Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel or the General Counsel of the Company.

ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH AND SAFETY

Foster Wheeler is committed to providing a safe and healthy working environment for its employees and to avoiding adverse impact and injury to the environment and the communities in which we do business. Foster Wheeler employees must comply with all applicable environmental, health and safety laws, regulations and Foster Wheeler standards. It is your responsibility to understand and comply with the laws, regulations and policies that are relevant to your job. Failure to comply with environmental, health and safety laws and regulations can result in civil and criminal liability against you and Foster Wheeler, as well as disciplinary action by Foster Wheeler, up to and including termination of employment. You should contact your Operating Unit's Corporate Counsel if you have any questions about the laws, regulations and policies that apply to you.

Environment

All Foster Wheeler employees should strive to conserve resources and reduce waste and emissions through recycling and other energy conservation measures. You have a responsibility to promptly report any known or suspected violations of environmental laws or any events that may result in a discharge or emission of hazardous materials. Employees whose jobs involve manufacturing, construction, plant operation, or other industrial activity have a special responsibility to safeguard the environment. Such employees should be particularly alert to the storage, disposal and transportation of waste and handling of toxic materials and emissions into the land, water or air.

Foster Wheeler is committed not only to comply with all relevant health and safety laws, but also to conduct business in a manner that protects the safety of its employees. If you have a concern about unsafe conditions or tasks that present a risk of injury to you, please report these concerns immediately to your supervisor or the Human Resources Department for your Operating Unit.
